Introduction

The Fulton County School Board believes that education is the bulwark of freedom and that our educational system of free public education is literally the nation's first line of defense and the greatest constructive force in the possession of the American people for the preservation of their freedoms and the advancement of the democratic way of life.

Since we subscribe to the basic philosophy as just stated, we believe that we are obligated to provide a continuously evolving type of educational program whereby each person in school may:

Become aware of the student's own interests, abilities, and potentialities.

Evolve a plan whereby the student's growth in terms of his/her interest, abilities, and potentialities can be assured.

Develop and maintain good health, proper health habits, and physical fitness.

Become proficient in the area of communications and in the understanding and interpretation of basic areas of knowledge.

Make use of the student's creative abilities and his/her abilities to do reflective thinking.

Equip the student for happy and successful living in a vocation for which s/he is well-adapted as far as our facilities will permit.

Prepare the student for happy living by the development of an appreciation for art, music, and literature, and the development of skills in certain hobbies, cultural, and recreational activities.

Prepare the student for the responsibilities and privileges of family life.

Prepare the student for the acceptance of responsibilities as an American citizen and a world citizen.

Prepare the student to recognize his/her responsibilities as a citizen with proper respect for authority, civil law, as well as school law.

Develop within the student the personal goal of honesty in word and action as a way of life.

In summary, our aims may be stated briefly as follows:

To offer a school program on all levels, as far as our finances will permit, that will care for the individual needs, interests, desires, and abilities of all students.

To offer a quality of instruction that will insure speedy and efficient learning on the part of all students.

To offer a program of guidance and direction that will enable each student to take the greatest advantage of the part of the school program best suited to him/her.

We hold that public schools will keep America strong and free if America's public will keep the schools free and strong and, firm in this conviction, we have agreed upon a statement of common beliefs and policies with regard to public education.

Welcome from the Superintendent

The purpose of this Handbook is to acquaint you with general Board of Education policies that govern and affect your employment and to outline the benefits available to you as an employee of the Fulton County School District. Information is power, and we want everyone to have information about your employment and benefits.

Because this Handbook is a general source of information, it is not intended to be, and should not be interpreted as, a contract. It is not an all-encompassing document and may not cover every possible situation or unusual circumstance. If a conflict exists between information in this Handbook and Board policy or administrative procedure, the policies and procedures govern. It is the employee's responsibility to refer to the actual policies and/or administrative procedures for further information. Board of Education policies and procedures are available online via the District's Web site, or through this Internet address: <http://policy.ksba.org/f08/> and complete copies of those documents are available at the Central Office. Any employee is free to review official policies and procedures and is expected to be familiar with those related to his/her job responsibilities. Employees and students who fail to comply with Board policies may be subject to disciplinary action. ✓Policy 01.5

School council policies, which are also available from the Principal, also apply in some instances. ✓Policy 02.4241

In this Handbook bolded policy codes indicate related Board of Education policies and procedures. If you have questions, contact your immediate supervisor or Patrice T. Chambers in the Central Office.

Located in the back of this Handbook is an Acknowledgment Form. Once you review this Handbook, please read the Acknowledgment Form, sign and date the Form, and return the Form to your immediate supervisor.

You are expected to be familiar with policies and procedures that are related to your job responsibilities.

Return the completed Acknowledgment Form to your immediate supervisor.

Board of Education Mission

In partnership with and in service to our community, the Fulton County Board of Education provides leadership, and acquires and allocates resources that enable all students to achieve a productive life through quality education (Adopted July 19, 2001; Reaffirmed October 31, 2006).

District Vision

The District Vision of Proficiency, Positive Relationships & Pilot Pride guides decisions and actions. Following is a brief history of the development of the Vision and explanations of the three Vision commitments.

Development of the Vision Statement Five meetings were conducted over a period of about six weeks. Participants included parents, teachers, administrators, board of education members, SBDM council members, and community members. The number of attendees at the meetings ranged from 7 to 18. A Kentucky Department of Education Highly Skilled Educator facilitated the process using a vision planning guide, handouts about successful schools and school districts, and other video and print materials. While different words were used and extensive conversation about what actions fit with the words took place, all participants agreed that Proficiency, Positive Relationships and Pilot Pride reflected the beliefs of the participants. Even though participants accepted this vision, they wanted to be sure there was opportunity for all stakeholders to become aware of the vision and have opportunity to participate in the acceptance or editing process. The hope of involving many people is that all will know and understand what the vision means and accept and apply the vision when making decisions, implementing actions, and evaluating outcomes.

Proficiency This is the level of academic achievement all students are expected to reach in Kentucky. Proficiency is the measure of student learning success for our students. Proficiency is also the expected level of work performance for district faculty and staff members and all adult stakeholders. If adults perform at a proficient level, then they will be better able to move all students to academic proficiency.

Positive Relationships It is important that all stakeholders respect and value one another. Being open and honest with others is important for working relationships. Conversations and actions must be focused on the goal of proficiency for each student, every student. Planning, decisions, implementation of strategies and activities, and evaluation of outcomes must focus on issues related to proficiency for students, not on interpersonal relationships and issues. Questioning and disagreeing with one another is acceptable, indeed necessary, for real positive change to occur. We must have productive, not destructive, conflict. We can disagree without being disagreeable and sometimes agree to disagree. All certified staff members, indeed all stakeholders, must comply with an ethical code of behavior and remember that students model our behavior. Once decisions are made, all must accept the decisions and move forward maintaining positive relationships on our journey to proficiency for our students.

Pilot Pride Our history includes much focus on negatives and not enough celebrations of positives. Faculty and staff must maintain confidentiality with knowledge of students and colleagues. There is much to celebrate, and we need to celebrate accomplishments – academic, athletic, individual, former graduates, professional, community, etc. – with pride and expectation of even better things to come. Celebrations and pride must be honest and include the “whole” story. We must also be honest about failures and problems. Failures and problems exist everywhere, but we do not have to let them overshadow the successes and growth. When we overcome failures and solve problems, we need to celebrate and have confidence that we can continue to overcome failures and solve problems. We cannot control what others may say or do, but we can control our reactions and responses. If we know something is not true, we can share this fact. When one does not know the facts, the appropriate response is, “I don’t know.” If there is a question, ask. We must believe and communicate to all, in action and word, that Fulton County students are the best.

Future Policy Changes

Although every effort will be made to update the Handbook on a timely basis, the Fulton County School District reserves the right and has the sole discretion to change any policies, procedures, benefits, and terms of employment without notice, consultation, or publication, except as may be required by contractual agreements and law. The District reserves the right and has the sole discretion to modify or change any portion of this Handbook at any time.

Following is a summary of the major provisions of the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) provided by the United States Department of Labor.

FML Basic Leave Entitlement

FMLA requires covered employers to provide up to 12 weeks of unpaid, job-protected leave to eligible employees for the following reasons:

- For incapacity due to pregnancy, prenatal medical care or child birth;
- To care for the employee's child after birth, or placement for adoption or foster care;
- To care for the employee's spouse, son, daughter or parent, who has a serious health condition; or
- For a serious health condition that makes the employee unable to perform the employee's job.

Military Family Leave Entitlements - Eligible employees whose spouse, son, daughter or parent is on covered active duty or call to covered active duty status may use their 12-week leave entitlement to address certain qualifying exigencies. Qualifying exigencies may include attending certain military events, arranging for alternative childcare, addressing certain financial and legal arrangements, attending certain counseling sessions, and attending post-deployment reintegration briefings.

FMLA also includes a special leave entitlement that permits eligible employees to take up to 26 weeks of leave to care for a covered servicemember during a single 12-month period. A covered servicemember is: (1) a current member of the Armed Forces, including a member of the National Guard or Reserves, who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy, is otherwise in outpatient status, or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list, for a serious injury or illness*; or (2) a veteran who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable at any time during the five-year period prior to the first date the eligible employee takes FMLA leave to care for the covered veteran, and who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy for a serious injury or illness.*

*The FMLA definitions of "serious injury or illness" for current servicemembers and veterans are distinct from the FMLA definition of "serious health condition".

Benefits and Protections - During FMLA leave, the employer must maintain the employee's health coverage under any "group health plan" on the same terms as if the employee had continued to work. Upon return from FMLA leave, most employees must be restored to their original or equivalent positions with equivalent pay, benefits, and other employment terms.

Use of FMLA leave cannot result in the loss of any employment benefit that accrued prior to the start of an employee's leave.

Eligibility Requirements - Employees are eligible if they have worked for a covered employer for at least 12 months, have 1,250 hours of service in the previous 12 months*, and if at least 50 employees are employed by the employer within 75 miles.

*Special hours of service eligibility requirements apply to airline flight crew employees.

Definition of Serious Health Condition - A serious health condition is an illness, injury, impairment, or physical or mental condition that involves either an overnight stay in a medical care facility, or continuing treatment by a health care provider for a condition that either prevents the employee from performing the functions of the employee's job, or prevents the qualified family member from participating in school or other daily activities.

Subject to certain conditions, the continuing treatment requirement may be met by a period of incapacity of more than 3 consecutive calendar days combined with at least two visits to a health care provider or one visit and a regimen of continuing treatment, or incapacity due to pregnancy, or incapacity due to a chronic condition. Other conditions may meet the definition of continuing treatment.

Use of Leave - An employee does not need to use this leave entitlement in one block. Leave can be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule when medically necessary. Employees must make reasonable efforts to schedule leave for planned medical treatment so as not to unduly disrupt the employer's operations. Leave due to qualifying exigencies may also be taken on an intermittent basis.

Substitution of Paid Leave for Unpaid Leave - Employees may choose or employers may require use of accrued paid leave while taking FMLA leave. In order to use paid leave for FMLA leave, employees must comply with the employer's normal paid leave policies.

Employee Responsibilities - Employees must provide 30 days advance notice of the need to take FMLA leave when the need is foreseeable. When 30 days notice is not possible, the employee must provide notice as soon as practicable and generally must comply with an employer's normal call-in procedures.

Employees must provide sufficient information for the employer to determine if the leave may qualify for FMLA protection and the anticipated timing and duration of the leave. Sufficient information may include that the employee is unable to perform job functions, the family member is unable to perform daily activities, the need for hospitalization or continuing treatment by a health care provider, or circumstances supporting the need for military family leave.

Employees also must inform the employer if the requested leave is for a reason for which FMLA leave was previously taken or certified. Employees also may be required to provide a certification and periodic recertification supporting the need for leave.

Employer Responsibilities - Covered employers must inform employees requesting leave whether they are eligible under FMLA. If they are, the notice must specify any additional information required as well as the employees' rights and responsibilities. If they are not eligible, the employer must provide a reason for the ineligibility.

Covered employers must inform employees if leave will be designated as FMLA-protected and the amount of leave counted against the employee's leave entitlement. If the employer determines that the leave is not FMLA-protected, the employer must notify the employee.

Unlawful Acts by Employers - FMLA makes it unlawful for any employer to: interfere with, restrain, or deny the exercise of any right provided or to discharge or discriminate against any person for opposing any practice made unlawful by FMLA or for involvement in any proceeding under or relating to FMLA.

Enforcement - An employee may file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Labor or may bring a private lawsuit against an employer. FMLA does not affect any Federal or State law prohibiting discrimination, or supersede any State or local law or collective bargaining agreement which provides greater family or medical leave rights.
